The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 10, and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hoffman U.S. Patent 5,529,539.

Hoffman disclosed a swing comprising a bench type swing (17) being suspended by two chains (8); a sail (9) is laterally disposed between the chains and above the swing, wherein a large plane of the sail is positioned generally vertically when the swing is static (applicant's claims 1 and 10); a first end of the sail is attached to a first of the chains and a second end of the sail is attached to a second of the chains (applicant's claim 2); a substantial portion of the large plane of the sail is rectangular (applicant's claim 4); the sail is mounted to one of the chains near a left upper side of the sail, and near a left lower side of the sail, and wherein the said is mounted to a second of the chains near a right upper side of the sail, and near a right lower side of the sail (applicant's claim 5); the sail is mounted to each of the chains at two points (applicant's claim 6); the sail is laterally disposed between the chains and above the swing and below a member (10) from which the chains are suspended.

Claims 1 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Babcock et al U.S. Patent 5,938,283.

Art Unit: 3712

Babcock et al disclosed a swing that is suspended by members (30) which could be in the form of chains (see 84); a sail (23) that is laterally disposed between the chains and above the swing, a large plane (vertical sections of sail 30) of the sail is positioned generally vertically when the swing is static and the large plane of the sail comprised of fabric.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 7-9 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
